The Derivatives Service Bureau (DSB) is a fully automated generator of International Securities Identification Numbers (ISINs) for OTC derivatives. The DSB is the first numbering agency designed to operate on a global basis and to meet the particular requirements of the derivatives markets. The DSB is also developing the UPI.

FIRDS

Financial Instruments Reference Data System ('FIRDS') is a data collection infrastructure in operation in both the EU and the UK. FIRDS was established to aid data collection in an efficient and harmonised manner.

FITRS

From 9 January 2018, the Financial Instruments Transparency System (FITRS) displayed information on transparency calculations, in particular for derivatives (at ISIN level) and new listed bonds and equities. From 1 May 2018 the quarterly liquidity assessment for bonds (except ETCs and ETNs) was also provided through FITRS.
